The X Site Tim Jones 2001-01-01 This book will undoubtedly become the definitive work on the Ministry of Supply Factory, Rhydymwyn, near Mold, North Wales (aka Valley Works) and its important contribution to WWII and the part it might have played had events dictated. Nestling in the Valley inbetween Denbigh & Mold is this former chemical manufacture and storage facility that, at its peak, employed some 1,700 people turning out tens of thousands of mustard gas shells. There are underground storage tunnels dug deep into the hillside and several buildings, now empty, that once bustled with more sinister activity including atomic experiments. The author seeks not to sensationalise the subject, but to inform the reader and hopefully enable you to make better sense of the past and of the current situation, where it is intended to put the site to a safe end-use and write the final chapter in the history of the site.

Chemistry OpenStax 2014-10-02 This is part two of two for Chemistry: Atoms First by OpenStax. This book covers chapters 11-21. Chemistry: Atoms First is a peer-reviewed, openly licensed introductory textbook produced through a collaborative publishing partnership between OpenStax and the University of Connecticut and UConn Undergraduate Student Government Association. This title is an adaptation of the OpenStax Chemistry text and covers scope and sequence requirements of the two-semester general chemistry course. Reordered to fit an atoms first approach, this title introduces atomic and molecular structure much earlier than the traditional approach, delaying the introduction of more abstract material so students have time to acclimate to the study of chemistry. Chemistry: Atoms First also provides a basis for understanding the application of quantitative principles to the chemistry that underlies the entire course. The images in this textbook are grayscale.

Innovative SANEX process for trivalent actinides separation from PUREX raffinate Micha? Sypu?a 2014-03-27 Recycling of nuclear spent fuel and reduction of its radiotoxicity by separation of long-lived radionuclides would definitely help to close the nuclear fuel cycle ensuring sustainability of the nuclear energy. Partitioning of the main radiotoxicity contributors followed by their conversion into short-lived radioisotopes is known as partitioning and transmutation strategy. To ensure efficient transmutation of the separated elements (minor actinides) the content of lanthanides in the irradiation targets has to be minimised. This objective can be attained by solvent extraction using highly selective ligands that are able to separate these two groups of elements from each other. The objective of this study was to develop a novel process allowing co-separation of minor actinides and lanthanides from a high active acidic feed solution with subsequent actinide recovery using just one cycle, so-called innovative SANEX process. The conditions of each step of the process were optimised to ensure high actinide separation efficiency. Additionally, screening tests of several novel lipophilic and hydrophilic ligands provided by University of Twente were performed. These tests were aiming in better understanding the influence of the extractant structural modifications onto An(III)/Ln(III) selectivity and complexation properties. ...
